"Progress Fund" Is Reported Making Headway

Moore Will Be in Portland Area This Week

The current campaign to raise $100,000 "Progress Fund" at Pacific college has met with an encouraging initial response, according to Prof. George Moore, who is heading up the canvass. At present he is working with friends of the college in the state of Washington.

Aided by Prof. Roy Knight, Prof. Moore reported that he would make contacts in Portland and this area next week and later on in Idaho. President Gulley is now in the Mid-West where he plans to solicit funds, and after his return, he and Prof. Knight will visit California friends. No house to house canvass will be made in Newberg, according to college officials, but it is hoped that interested friends will communicate with the college and invite consultation.

The urgency of the present campaign was emphasized at a recent faculty meeting when it was pointed out that Pacific's continued accreditation is dependent upon the raising of a considerable portion of these funds before next year. The building program funds must be on hand, but will not be carried out until after the war, stated Pres. Gulley. This "progress fund" campaign coincides with plans for a larger and more effective college in the post-war era, he reported. In conclusion, he quoted Col. William Everson, former president of Linfield college, who stated at a recent Rotary meeting, "Every family in Newberg should be backing their home college, and should include at least some bequest to the college in their will."

Deputation Groups Sing In Sunday Services

Deputation teams from Pacific continued working as two quartets went out this weekend. The girls' quartet, composed of Nancy Lewis, Joyce Perisho, Betty Ann Craven, and Patricia Perisho, sang at Piedmont Friends church in Portland last Sunday morning and traveled to Vancouver to take part in an evening service in the Friends Church there.

The girl's quartet spent the weekend of October 29 in Tacoma, Washington, where they sang in eight services, made two radio broadcasts, and made a recording for a program to be given this week.

The male quartet sang for the opening sessions of the Mennonite Convention in Salem last week.

The college male quartet, composed of Herschel Thornburg, Paul Thornburg, Roy Clark, and Everett Craven, sang at Lents Friends in Portland Sunday morning and in Camas, Washington, Sunday night.

A mixed quartet comprising Marjorie Murphy, Leta Hockett, Wesley Murphy, and Quincy Fodge, has also been active in deputation work. The group sang at the Newberg Free Methodist Church on Thursday, November 2. Yesterday they sang in the First Friends Church in Portland for the morning service.

Student Body Play Scheduled for Dec. 15

The date for the student body play has been set for December 15, announces Mrs. Dorothy Morse, dramatics instructor.

Selection of the play will be made this week, and casting will probably be done the first of next week. Anyone in the student body may try out for this play.

Vera Jones, dramatics manager for the A. S. B., will assist with this play.

I. R. C. Has Meeting at Lunch Hour Tomorrow

The International Relations Club of Pacific will organize a meeting scheduled for chapel hour and the noon hour tomorrow. Initial plans for the club were made at a meeting held October 31. Meeting will be held each Tuesday at chapel hour and will continue through the noon hour. Membership is open to anyone wishing to attend. There will be a general discussion of current events at the first part of each meeting, and a leader or speaker will lead a discussion of a particular topic each week.

Lewis Hoskins and Perry Macy represented the faculty at the first meeting of the club. Several new books will arrive soon for the I. R. C. library, they report.

Former Students And Alumni Invited To 1944 Homecoming

"Round-up" to Be Theme For Homecoming Banquet

The appropriate theme of a "Round-up" will be carried out in program and decorations for the Homecoming banquet to be held in the chamber of commerce rooms in Newberg. Barbara Garrett and Viola Nixon are in charge of the banquet. A large crowd is expected and an elaborate toast program has been planned by Evelyn Shattuck and Wilma Archambeau. Decorations are in charge of Eleanor Swanson and Eilene Tamplin. The banquet will be held at 6:00 p. m. Tickets are now on sale.

The evening program will follow the banquet at 8:15 p. m. Held in Wood-Mar auditorium, the program will feature a one-act play, "Everything Nice," by A. A. O'Keefe, under the direction of Mrs. Dorothy Morse.

The cast has been selected from the student body and includes the following: Eleanor Swanson, Leta Hockett, Gloria Newall, Vera Jones, Divonna Schweitzer, Orrin Ogier, and Allen Thomas. The production staff includes Vivian Miller, prompter, Charlotte Macy and Eilene Tamplin, properties, and Ross Gulley, stage manager.

Featured also on the evening program will be the dedication of the remodeled auditorium. The college orchestra will make its first appearance, Prof. Roy Clark will give a reading, and the male quartet will furnish music.

Students are urged to do as much personal advertising as possible to make this year's "Round Up" the biggest and best ever.

Plans Advance for Speech Institute

Five colleges and twenty High Schools have been invited to the Willamette Valley Forensic Institute which will be held on Pacific's campus December 2. This will be the first institute of the IAFD this year.

The institute will be held from 9:00 a. m. to 5:00 p. m. College students will have practice debates on the college debate subject this year: "Resolved that the federal government should enact legislation providing for compulsory arbitration for labor disputes." The high school subject is "Resolved that the voting age should be lowered to eighteen." The extemporaneous speaking subjects will be drawn from the November issues of Newsweek magazine.

Pacific College will enter a debate team. College students will help supervise the event. Those attending the institute will be entertained at luncheon in the college dining hall. Further arrangements are not as yet complete.

10:00 a. m. — Wood-Mar Hall — Registration.
10:00 a. m. — Open house in all college buildings.
2:00 p. m. — Gymnasium — Volleyball tournament.
4:00 p. m. — Campus — Tree-planting ceremony (honoring Dr. Thomas W. Hester).
6:00 p. m. — Chamber of Commerce rooms — Homecoming Banquet.
8:15 p. m. — Wood-Mar auditorium — Evening program featuring the play, "Everything Nice."

Research Chemist Story In Sunday Oregonian

A story and pictures of Don Dodd, research chemist on Pacific College campus, appeared in the magazine section of the Oregonian, Sunday, November 5.

College officials are asking that all the copies possible be collected for the use of the college. Arrangements have been made with Millhollen's Drug Co. for magazines to be collected there to be turned over to the college.

P. C. Auxiliary Planning Bazaar

The Portland Women's Auxiliary will sponsor a bazaar to be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Heacock, 635 N. E. Hazel-fern Place, Portland (one block north of Glisan street) on Thursday, November 16, from 4:00 p. m. to 10:30 p. m.

Profits from this sale will be used toward improvements in the college dormitory. The public, in and around Portland, is invited to attend.

There will be many things for sale, including fancy work, of various designs, children's clothes and accessories, baby clothes, toys, etc. There will be a flower booth where plants, cut flowers, and cacti will be sold. At a Christmas card booth cards, Christmas wrapping paper, seals, ribbons, etc., will be sold. At this booth there will be girls who will wrap Christmas packages in gift paper and ribbon, ready for the tree. There is a small charge for this service.

At another booth food will be for sale, including candy, popcorn, cakes, pies, cookies, and farm produce of various kinds. A refreshment booth is planned, where drinks, salads, sandwiches, sake, etc., will be sold.

A fishpond booth is planned for the benefit of the children.

The Portland auxiliary would greatly appreciate any donations of any kind. Fancy work and farm produce such as fresh eggs, cider, pumpkins, nuts, apples are especially desirable. There will be a car going in from Newberg on Thursday, November 16, and these donations should be brought to the college, where they will be collected for sale.

All students, faculty members, or friends of the college, are invited to help put over this affair, since the students themselves will greatly benefit from it.

"Hester Redwood" to Be Dedicated During Day

Pacific College will welcome all former students, alumni, and interested friends back to the campus for 1944 Homecoming day, next Saturday, November 11. Plans by the various committees are in their final stage, according to Burton Frost, generalissimo for the day.

Registration will begin in the main hall of Wood-Mar Hall at 10:00 a. m., with Joyce Perisho and Margery Cole in charge. Open houses will be held in all buildings on the campus during the morning. This will be the first opportunity for the public to see the improvements made in the dormitories.

The afternoon program will be in charge of Charlotte Macy. A

Hey, kids! Remember the traditional Freshman bonfire for Homecomings before the war? Well, it's being revived this year. That's right, and freshmen Stanley Williams, Glen Koch, and Floyd Watson who are in charge, promise fire to rank with the large in years past.

And that's not all. There'll be fun, but plenty, and songs and yells led by our newly elected cheer leaders. You won't want to miss it—next Friday night, November 10. Let's have the entire student body turn out, and all get into the real Homecoming spirit!!

program of sports will divide the crowd into sides to participate in a volleyball tournament. The champion team will play a faculty team. The games will begin at 2:00 p. m. At 4:00 p. m. a tree planting ceremony will take place, when a young redwood tree dedicated to the late Dr. Thomas W. Hester, long-time physician in Newberg and for many years president of the college Board of Managers, will be transplanted to the college campus. College officials are yet undecided as to the location of the "Hester redwood."

Campus decorations are under the direction of Betty Ann Craven. Each organization on the campus is making itself known with posters to be displayed in the various buildings. They will make their appearance this week.

Pres. Gulley Expected To Return Nov. 10

President Gulley, who has been in Richmond, Indiana, attending a Friends Conference on Peacetime Conscription, will return to Newberg November 10.

The conference was held from November 1 to 4. On his way home Mr. Gulley expects to visit Friends in Indianapolis, Indiana, and Wichita, Kansas, in the interests of the current "Progress Fund" campaign.

Newberg's hills and surrounding country have taken on new colors since school began six weeks ago. Bright red and yellow splashes contrast with the evergreens, and brown leaves cover the ground. The smoke of burning leaves taints the air, and the rain which patters quietly down is cooler. The haze on the horizon is different too—it's fall.

And fall at P. C. means one thing above others—Homecoming. We'll celebrate this year's Homecoming next Saturday. Burton Frost has an able staff working under him, but to make Homecoming a real success he needs the enthusiasm of the entire student body. The bonfire on Friday night won't be much fun if students don't turn out to enjoy it, or if the freshmen don't rally round to build it. The games on the afternoon of Homecoming won't be any fun if we don't participate.

Let's decide this day is going to be fun—and make it that way!

The special meetings held last week under the ministry of Frank Davies were a great inspiration to those who attended. The tendency to fall back in the same old rut after such a series of meetings is over is not good. The new vision, the inspirations, and answered prayers, need not be lost in returning to regular routine of school work. As a matter of fact, if this be the case, the purpose in having revival meetings is not realized.

To consecrate one's life wholly to God's service during such meetings is relatively easy. And it should be. But the test of the consecration comes afterwards. Let us pray that our student body shall experience a lasting benefit from the services, and will continue to have the same concern for those who will have not known the Christ as their personal Saviour.

Do you have a pet peeve, or some particular view you'd like to air? Why not write a letter to the editor of the Crescent. We will publish such letters if they are signed and contain logical argument.

This last week, as you all know, was the end of our first six weeks of school. . . . Which suggested to us a train of thought.

We came to college to learn something, and that involves studying and lots of it. From all we've gathered, this past six weeks hasn't been such a good example.

Of course, none of us can be expected to bury ourselves in textbooks all the time, but it's been rumored that the faculty expects us to do so part of the time. It's rather helpful, we find, when it comes to tests.

On the clock in the library is written, "Don't wish for ability, develop it." This could be changed to read, "Don't wish for knowledge and good grades, but study for them."

SO—why not experiment and see if that could be right. We think you'll find it is.

Sleep, thrice blessed sleep
Priceless commodity,
Impractical rarity,
'Tis something which unattained,
Maketh lower eyelids stained,
With purple blotches,
Maketh a face's spots.

This verse is the text of today's sermon, entitled Sleep. The necessity of this was called to my attention by the sad experience of a brother—a sad, shipwrecked brother.

One morning he hurried down to breakfast after a minimum of getting acquainted with his bed. A sad disaster occurred. He ate prunes, one of the most detested words that tongue can utter or taste, without realizing it. We can all take warning from this—the experience of a brother wayfarer upon life's stormy seas.

Our faculty and dorm parents sought to protect us from evil temptations by making rules discouraging us from week-day dates, but everyone knows that there is a legitimate excuse to be out every evening of the week. Tuesday you go to student prayer meeting and study in the library until 9:30. Wednesday, you go to church prayer meeting and thence to orchestra practice. Thursday, you go to church choir practice and study in the library. Friday, Saturday, and Sunday are your own just as long as you come in at the set hour. It is up to you, dear reader, to find your own excuse to get out on Monday night.

I ask you what is unreasonable about taking it all in? At least many members of the student body are out every night. For another thing, I demand to have

Letters From Crescent Readers

Dear Editor:

After the results of the six-weeks tests, there has been considerable comment on the subject of study directed toward our lowest class members. After some consultation with various class members, we find that the Freshmen think their classes are interesting enough. They don't blame the prof, but they can't keep up with his lectures and are often made to wonder why they are in college, anyway.

Many a Frosh studies hard and willingly, but evidently too many hours are spent on non-essential details instead of the vital high points of the course. We feel that this is true for three reasons: First, they have insufficient notes, having never learned to properly outline a lecture. Second, they cannot discern the essential points in assigned reading. Third, many have not yet become acquainted with the most beneficial use of the library.

We know that the college cannot provide a full time personnel counselor; however, it is quite evident that there is a great need on our campus for a more common interest and mutual understanding between student and professor. We recommend that each professor provide an opportunity for individual conference with his class members as often as possible, preferably each six weeks, but essentially, each semester. Orientation is not enough; a personal approach is needed. If this plan were carried out, we feel sure that a higher scholastic standard, and a true rapport would result.

An Epistle To Horatius

Dear Horatius:

So sorry not to have wrote sooner. Since Freshman week I've been so-o-o busy keeping up with things it's just worn me out, and besides, Jezzy's been giving me a ba-ad time.

. . . Anyhoo . . . it seems now that everybody is doin' somethin' for what they call "Homecoming." I'm wonderin' it it's kinda a feast for the prodigal son or just what. I ask Jezzy if that was what it was and she just laughed at me. Made me kinda sore, it did. Then, the other day, I made a three point landin' on the bulletin board and found I was crawlin' over a big piece of paper with a whole lot of names spread over it, and at the top it said—"Burton Frost, generalissimo." That got my curiosity up and so I crawled down a little further and read all the names of the committees and who's on them (so's to keep up on things, you know) and I guess, now, I know why Jezzy laughed at me.

Seems as if this Homecoming has something to do with welcomin' the old students back and givin' them a good time—and with lots of eats and such. Boy and does that sound good! ½ Sounds like a lot of fun, even for a fly like me, don't you think? (Wish you could be here.)

Buzzin' around the hall one day I heard someone say they hadn't had their committee meeting yet, and bein' curious as to what they was up to, I kinda buzzed along after em. Durin' the meetin' I sorta got a good idea o' things, but would have gotten a better one if they hadn't rudely shooed me off their papers and stuff, and actually, Horatius, tried to hit me! And they made me quit crawling on their shoulders, too. Sorta insulted me. I got clean feet. After all, I was just tryin' to get a good view of everything. Wonder if I had that Halitosis I happened to read about in a magazine in the library?

. . . And, guess what? You remember how the auditorium looked last time you was here? Well, you wouldn't recognize it now. They're makin' new drapes. Boy, we'll be in class, we will.

Just this afternoon I snuck into the Art class room in the museum and I saw they was makin' some sort of little thing-a-ma-doodles out of cardboard. I heard someone say they were for registration, whatever that is.

Well, guess that sorta finishes things for this time. Maybe I can write some more soon.

Yours as before,

Felix Fly.

Commandments For Students

1. THOU SHALT HAVE NO OTHER GODS BEFORE ME. Thou shalt not in a far country forget the God of thy fathers. He is even on the campus of your college as well as at home.
2. THOU SHALT NOT MAKE UNTO THEE ANY GRAVEN IMAGE. Neither anything else that thou shalt worship, whether a social organization, athletic interest or any outside activity.
3. THOU SHALT NOT TAKE THE NAME OF THE LORD THY GOD IN VAIN. No, not even in minced oaths.
4. REMEMBER THE SABBATH DAY; TO KEEP IT HOLY. Six days shalt thou labor and do all thy work; all thy studies. Fill the Sabbath with those things acceptable to God.
5. HONOR THY FATHER AND THY MOTHER by holding fast to the best that they have taught thee; by showing respect in thought, word, and deed.
6. THOU SHALT NOT KILL hopes, ideals, no, nor the reputation of the girl or boy across the hall.
7. THOU SHALT NOT COMMIT ADULTERY. Respect the sacredness of love, regard it never lightly.
8. THOU SHALT NOT STEAL, neither thy roommate's or neighbor's time, ideas, work, nor friends.
9. THOU SHALT NOT BEAR FALSE WITNESS AGAINST THY NEIGHBOR; neither in thy room, nor thy society hall, nor anywhere else among thy friends.
10. THOU SHALT NOT COVET thy friend's clothes, grades, social position, nor anything else that thou hast not earned.

It costs to have a vision, but it costs too much to remember only the price.

Dear Diary

Dear Diary:

Another week is past. My, how time flies!

We see that romance goes on even off the campus. Bernard Landreth and Verla Aebischer seem to be doing all right for themselves.

The Depot is a handy place for meeting. Isn't it, Patty?

Everett Craven seems to do O. K. for himself with four girls, but that's all right; we realize there is a man shortage.

Diary—did I see Preston Mills out on Hallowe'en night with a little blond? I don't believe I recall seeing her around the campus.

They tell me that there is a man shortage, but as I looked across the aisle in church Sunday night much to my surprise I saw a whole row of boys. Of course I just couldn't help but see one aisle over. There sat a girl, whom I was not familiar with, accompanied by Stanley Williams. Everyone would like to know her name. In the same direction we saw Wilma Kontz and Bob Gwinn—chaperoned by Ross Galley.

Glen Koch certainly enjoyed himself on the way home from church Sunday night, but then we hear she's nice company, Glen.

I was sorry, dear diary, in what I heard about Nancy Lewis. They said she was sad her whole weekend in Tacoma because they wouldn't let her stop at the Wolf Supply House!

I don't understand all that goes on over in the annex. They said they never before saw Allen Thomas squeeze so hard for some tooth paste!

Well, Diary, all good things must come to an end. I'll tell you further developments next week—after Homecoming.

New Members Initiated Into Trefian Society

Initiation of new members took place in Trefian Literary Society meeting held in Canyon Hall, October 25. Those who successfully passed initiation were Rosabelle Webb, Doris Switzer, Laura Birch, Colleen Bybee, Pauline Ireland, Divonna Schweitzer, Eleanor Swanson, Mariann Paden, Helen Randle, Betty Gene Svendsen, Patricia Perisho, Eleanor Ruth Ellis, Donna Heacock, Jessie Wakefield, Gloria Newall, Nancy May Lewis, Isabelle Schroeder, Eileen Tamplin, Barbara Terrill, Genevieve Belz, and Evangeline Shattuck.

The initiation followed the regular business meeting of the club, during which the new members were given some of the rules of the club and told of its aims and plans for the year.

The meeting ended with refreshments served by the social committee.

explained to me why of the twenty-four hours of the day, the time starting at 9:30 p. m. should be the most favorable time for study, especially for Divonna's special extra curricular chemistry class?

Oh, you are not troubled by any of this? Your only bed time duty is writing to your long absent "heart." I still am curious to know what is so interesting that you should still be writing at midnight.

One sage man once said that while you were up you were impatient for the other fellow making the same noise you had made five minutes before. Too, too often one's good intentions for eight hours on the pillow are delayed by the audibly vocal search for the Missing Picture. Just think! The arguments were so overwhelmingly in favor of late hours that last year two roomies took a nap in the afternoon so they could stay awake at night!

Seriously, homesickness and quarrels with your room-mate are often a result of nerve strain caused to a great degree by too few hours in bed. Remember, sleep really is a beauty nap. Perhaps a few minutes put on the other end of the night would eliminate bandannas and house slippers for breakfast as well as puffy eyes and pale faces. Breakfast hardly continues the romantic illusions you worked on until the last moment last night.

When you must study, it would do you much more good if you would get up proportionately early. You can do much better when you do not need to hold your eyes open with one hand. Of course, the hall would still be noisy, but you need not be one of those making it. It is the same as the thought that if everyone were good, there would be no evil.

No seeming fun when you are half asleep can make up for the vivaciousness of being wide awake during the day. A mind half drugged with sleep can not absorb knowledge, let alone be enthusiastic about it. To learn something is what the college catalog assumes you are here for.

Let's start a back to bed movement. If not, let us rent our beds to three other shifts. The Scotch in us should make us get our money's worth.

Many a tinker and weaver and stone-cutter and hard worker has had open windows and a sky, and a mind with wings!

Library Acquires New Books

Since this semester began, 180 books have been catalogued by the librarian of Pacific College. The largest group is 73, selected from the old Minthorn library. The college has purchased Newberg's Hoover House for a museum of Hooveriana, and sent the books which were in it to the college library to be sorted. Those older than 1895 were sent back to be a part of the Hoover museum, while the remainder has been looked over with the chosen books being added to the library. The fiction, French, German, history and literature sections have been benefitted. Five gifts from other sources have made the total of the gift books seventy-three.

The largest group of purchased books is the fifty-one volumes of the Chronicles of America. These are readable histories, as the college student would say. Other interesting books are: Searchlight on Peace Plans, containing outlines of all known peace theories that were ever written or tried; New Encyclopedia of Modern Sewing, even has diagrams and is good for any degree of expert seamstress; The Negro Caravan, and anthology of Negro literature. There are also some very interesting books about music, sports, and biology.

There are one hundred and two purchased books, making one hundred and eighty books added already this year. Since April, 1940, 1,210 books have been added to the library.

Student Body Gives Hallowe'en Party in Gym

Faculty and students enjoyed a party given by the Student Body last Saturday night, all in theme with the Hallowe'en season. Regular peppy activity games were held that kept the crowd enthused. Dissection of Glenn Koch was conducted by Stanley Williams behind a screen, or so it looked according to the motions of the shadows. No screams were heard though. After this feat Dorothy Baird led the group in the darkness of the back rooms of the gym on a hunt for his "remains." Much giggling and fun was had by all, climaxed by appetizing refreshments.

Rooted in the shadow to bloom in the light! Roots, then roses.

Faith is taking God at his word.

A drying well will often lead the spirit to the river that flows from the throne of God.

Be like the pine on the hill-top,

The faith that will shut the mouths of lions must be more than a pious hope that they will not bite.

First Basketball Games at Linfield Dec. 1 and 2

Roudy, batin, pagata, dicker, deba, eba . . . What's all the fuss about? Why not fuss? Basketball season is on the verge of starting to commence to begin now that Homecoming is upon us and nearly behind us.

Why not be excited? Five of last year's lettermen have returned for the school term and rumor has it that a few of the new students can out do any college lettermen in hoop hurling. But time, practice, cooperation, and the appearance of the newly organized pep club band will speak for a promising season in basketball and victory for Pacific College.

The first basketball games of the year will be played at Linfield College on December 1 and 2, according to Burton Frost, director of physical education for men.

A tournament is being planned. Colleges participating will be Linfield, Seattle Pacific, Pacific University, and Pacific College.

Actorators Have Meeting

The Pacific College Actorators met the evening of October 31. The main discussion of the meeting was on the subject of the Speech institute to be held on the campus of Pacific College December 2.

Plans were begun for a high school play tournament to be held at Pacific College next spring.

Janet Phipps Given Citation in Italy

Pvt. Janet C. Phipps, daughter of Mrs. Wave Phipps, 215 West Third street, Newberg, who is stationed with a WAC company in Italy, recently was part of a group of 31 WACS who received the army's good conduct medal.

The ribbon, the same as that awarded to soldiers, represents a year's service and is given for exemplary conduct and efficient duty. It is the third issued to Pfc. Phipps as she also wears the yellow and green WAC ribbon for having re-enlisted in the corps when it was made a component of the army, and the ribbon of the North African theater of operations.

She entered the WAC in June, 1943, and was trained at Ft. Devens, Mass., and Ft. Oglethorpe, Ga.

Completed This Week

What are you doing in your spare time this week? How about ambling up to the auditorium to see if there is anything you can do. The faculty is working intensively this week to finish the stage so that it will be ready for Homecoming. The curtains are completely and ready to hang. The venetian blinds are here and ready to hang. The draperies can be hung when the blinds are up. Whatever time you can give will be appreciated!

M. A. A. Furthers Plans

Quincy Fodge, M. A. A. president, reports that further investigation has been made concerning the construction of new tennis courts for the college campus.

There has been some speculation as the location of the court. There is a possibility that it will be placed north of the present girls' dormitory near the sight planned for the new gymnasium.

The tennis court can probably not be made until next spring.

S. C. U. Holds Song And Testimony Service

An extraordinary Student Christian Union meeting was held November 1 when the entire service was spent in praise, song, and testimony.

The meeting opened with group singing led by Nancy May Lewis. Harold Thompson led the rest of the service, reading several verses of scripture. The remainder of the service was spent giving testimonies, singing choruses, etc.

The meeting ended with the group participating in a "Hallelujah march" with Prof. Roy Knight leading singing.

Visitors Come to P. C. This Week

Several interesting visitors are expected on Pacific's campus this week, according to reports from the chapel committee.

Mr. Lavinias Painter, a visiting Friend from New York Yearly Meeting, will be in chapel today. He is interested in the study of communities.

Miss Mary Robe, representing the World Student Service Fund, will be on the campus during the middle of the week.

Rachel Pickett, a representative of the Friends Service Committee, will be on the campus the latter part of this week to study the possibilities for C. P. S. scholarships to Pacific College.

W. S. S. F. Sets Goal at $500,000

With a goal of $500,000 and a staff of eight traveling secretaries, the 1944-45 campaign of the World Student Service Fund is well under way. "Never have we faced such needs," reports the Fund's office in New York. "Our relief committees overseas could spend ten times as much as we can supply."

News from the China front is serious. Recent cables from Chungking tell of the continuing advance of the Japanese armies in southwest China, the destruction of universities which had already migrated four or five times, and the trek of thousands of students still farther west. Many students were killed or captured in first attacks. One eye witness account says: "At midnight the Japanese came when we were all asleep. In the light of their torches they looked fierce and terrible. Our guide, Mr. Chen, asked why they had come. This angered them so that they brutally stabbed him to death. None of us dared say a word. Then those robbers began to open all our trunks and took away the things which they liked. After their departure there was much confusion, mourning for the innocent dead, crying over lost property, hatred, revenge, fear all mingled together."

The task of the World Student Service Fund's administering committee in China is, of course, greatly increased as they face the emergency needs of thousands of students.

From Europe comes news of the beginnings of the post-war program as the first student services are initiated in liberated countries. A cable just received in the W. S. S. F. office tells of two staff members already in France, opening a rehabilitation home for 100 French students in the Savoy mountains. A representative of the French student resistance movement is already working in the Geneva office. Plans are being made for the first student relief workers from overseas to go to Europe.

The program among prisoners of war keeps its primary place in the European student relief program. Despite disrupted communications in Germany, thousands of books go each month from Geneva to individual prisoners. This work must continue long after V-E day, for the repatriation process will be slow.

The W. S. S. F. reports that its aid to American students of Japanese ancestry continues, with the work soon to enter its third year.

"There is no doubt that American students can raise $500,000 for the relief of their fellow students who are victims of war. They can raise more than that if they set their minds to it!" says President Meta Glass of Sweet Briar college, president of the World Student Service Fund.

Six Weeks Completed

Student activity of an extra-curricular nature was curtailed last week because of the dreaded six weeks tests administered in most classes. This is the first grading period of this year.

Six weeks grade cards will be issued this week.

Q. M. Held in Newberg

The Newberg Quarterly Meeting of Friends, comprising Newberg, West Chehalis, Chehalis Center, Springbrook, Middleton, and Sherwood churches, will be held in the Newberg Church on Saturday morning, November 11, at 10:30 a. m. The leadership of the Meeting is divided among the pastors and Christian workers of the various meetings. Special music will also be a feature of the service.

In the afternoon departments of work are presented and the business of the Quarterly Meeting is to be transacted. Presiding clerk is Joseph W. McCracken. Dorwin W. Smith is Superintendent of the Quarterly Meeting work. Those in attendance will include David and Florence Thomas, who have recently opened a Friends work in Tillamook.

C. E. Rally at Sherwood

Pacific College students are invited to attend Newberg Quarterly Meeting Christian Endeavor rally to be held in the Sherwood Friends Church next Friday night at 7:45 p. m.

Special music and an interesting program have been arranged.

Homecoming Play Skit Presented to A. S. B.

Committee plans for Homecoming were announced to the student body in a meeting of the Associated Student Body held Friday, November 3. Burton Frost led the discussion and called on each committee head to tell what his committee was planning for the event.

A skit from the play, "Everything Nice," to be given on the evening program for Homecoming was presented following the A. S. B. meeting.

Yell leaders concluded the session by leading a peppy pep assembly introducing several new yells and songs.

Hoskins Tells Students Of Penn Anniversary

The William Penn tercentenary was brought to the minds of Pacific College students in chapel, October 30, when Prof. Lewis Hoskins told students something of the life of this great man.

Hoskins spoke as if he had had a dream in which William Penn returned to the United States after these many years of absence. He told of the reactions of Penn concerning the present United States government, Quakerism, and various institutions Penn set up when he was living.

His talk concluded with the recommendation that students read some of William Penn's literature, and urged that students do something at Pacific College to celebrate Penn's tercentenary.

Senator Burke Addresses S. B.

During the chapel hour, Thursday, November 2, State Senator W. E. Burke spoke concerning several bills that would be before the Oregon voter this election. Some of the more important bills he explained, dwelling on the fortified wine bill as the main text for his speech.

The senator explained the bill, and told of its formation and passage in the state legislature and the reason for its being referred to the public for final vote. In his closing remarks he left with the students the challenge to uphold American democracy.

. . . and then there was a woman driver who went to heaven and knocked down one of the Pearly Gates getting in.
